Our campus

Our beautiful campus is surprisingly compact and easy to get around. Explore in your own time or take a guided tour.

Campus tours

Go on a guided tour of the campus led by one of our student guides.

Collect your ticket from the King's Gate building, Level 2 (map ref 1). Tours run every 30 minutes from 9.30–3.30 and take approximately 30–45 minutes.

Explore on your own

If you don't have time for a guided tour, here are some of the main buildings and areas that you might see when you're walking to different activities.

King's Gate

This may be the first building you see when you arrive, and where you will find our Welcome Desk and Campus tours helpdesk. It's home to our student support services such as Accommodation and Student Wellbeing. Next to King's Gate you'll find The Grand, a popular coffee stop on campus.

Northern Stage

Opposite the Students' Union and across the lawn you'll see Northern Stage, the largest producing theatre company in the North East.

Students' Union

The Grade II listed Students' Union building is the social hub of campus. You'll find everything from societies to the student newspaper, a Co-op shop and places to eat here, including a Subway and Domino's Pizza. Tours of the building run throughout the day, or pop in and look around at your leisure.

The Arches

The Arches is one of the most iconic parts of campus. The tower was built in 1911 in honour of King Edward VII. Look closely and you might spot his statue which still looks out over campus.

Where to eat

There are lots of places on campus where you can stop for a drink or a bite to eat at the Open Day.

Some of the places are highlighted here and you'll find others on page 32 of this programme, and on our main University map.

Take a virtual tour

The Old Quadrangle

Through the Arches you'll find one of the greenest parts of our campus – the Old Quadrangle. In 1947 the Quad was turned into a formal garden dedicated to Newcastle University staff and students who died in the two World Wars. To your left is the Armstrong Building and inside you'll find King's Hall, where graduation ceremonies are held.

Student Forum

The Student Forum is a relaxing outdoor social space at the heart of the campus. Sit down and soak up the atmosphere under the watchful gaze of Newcastle University graduate Joseph Hillier's sculptures. Head through the Jubilee Arches and see the Martin Luther King statue, which was commissioned to mark the 50th anniversary of his visit to accept an honorary degree from Newcastle.

The Hatton Gallery

To the right of the Arches on King's Road you'll see the Hatton Gallery, which houses a diverse range of exhibitions and recently underwent a multimillion pound redevelopment. It also provides a platform for our Fine Art students to exhibit their work. Pop in to see the latest exhibitions.

Sports Centre

Sport is big at Newcastle – we're a top 10 University for sport (British Universities and Colleges rankings). We've invested £32 million in our facilities to provide you with more opportunities to take part in sport and exercise.

Great North Museum: Hancock

The Great North Museum: Hancock includes a range of fascinating exhibits, from a scale replica T-Rex skeleton to mummies from Ancient Egypt. Entry is free and the University is a leading partner in the museum.

Philip Robinson Library

Our main University library is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week during term time, and there's also a café inside if you're ready for a break.

Farrell Centre

Instigated by renowned architect-planner Sir Terry Farrell, and forming part of Newcastle University's School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape. The Farrell Centre is located in a four-storey Victorian building which has been transformed into a £4.6 million project; its mission is to widen the debate around the crucial roles that architecture and planning play in the contemporary world in ways that are innovative, engaging and challenging.

Entry is free and combines a public gallery, research hub, and community space, offering a variety of experiences for visitors of all ages.

Discover world-class engineering

Our campus

We're continuing to invest in our city-centre campus to create a first-class student and research environment.

Stephenson Building

Harnessing 70 years of heritage, we're transforming the Stephenson Building into an engineering hub for world-leading research and education.

Phase 1 of the £110m redevelopment will open this September, with the project scheduled for completion in September 2024.

Delivering an outstanding student experience and world-leading environment for research and innovation, it will feature:

- inclusive education spaces, including a student-centred Maker Space for interdisciplinary collaboration, creativity and entrepreneurship
- digital learning spaces with large flat-floor areas for flexible working
- multi-purpose teaching laboratories with flexibility to support multiple disciplines

Stephenson will be the home for people who make things work – the engineers, researchers, designers, and visionaries of the future, who will tackle world challenges together, making our world a better and healthier place.

Our sustainable campus

Caring for our world, today and tomorrow

We want to protect our planet and your future, that's why we're taking climate change action.

Ranked 4th in the UK and joint 24th in the world for our commitment to sustainable development*, we aim to reduce our environmental impact and reach net-zero carbon dioxide emissions by 2030.

We're working to:

- install solar photovoltaic panels on 50 buildings across campus
- reduce the energy we use with LED lighting, heating and ventilation system upgrades
- lower our carbon footprint – choosing to refurbish rather than rebuild whenever we can
- manage our water consumption and flood risk – we've installed a 'blue roof' sustainable drainage system at The Henry Daysh Building
- improve campus wildlife habitats with 1,500sqm of extra wildflower planting – we hold the Hedgehog Friendly Campus Silver Award and a Green Flag award

Join us and be part of the change.
